

Face Facts: The Science of Facial Expressions

Genre: Magazine Article

If you smiled without feeling happy, you might think no one would notice—Paul Ekman would. He studies facial expressions to figure out when people are lying. With this knowledge, he teaches law enforcement personnel how to detect liars.

Silent Language

Genre: Magazine Article

Body language can often reveal more than words. Sometimes it gives away more than people want. With practice, people can control what their bodies say. This article offers tips on positive communication through posture, gestures, and eye contact.